GONG COMMENT: Thu Mar 13 19:55:13 GMT 2003

I talked to Guillermo and explained the differences between the new "camera monitor" (aka camera relay) box and the older one. They want to use our older design as the standard for all sites so I gave him the specs on our old box. He explained that they use the convention where the signal wire is red, the common is black, and the shield goes to the green wire. They will make a new box and send it out (the theory is that our current relay is bad), then when we swap it for our old box we'll send that plus the mismatched new box back to them together.

Guillermo wants me to ship the new camera relay box back to him, I went to the shelter to pick it up. While I was there I rebooted the sparcstation because the displayed image was dated incorrecly.
