WEATHER COMMENT: Wed Jan 12 18:05:59 GMT 2005

Scattered altostratus clouds, SW wind 25 mph, temp 34 F.

Icy snow on ground, road impassable from 0.8 mile (old picnic area), walked up from there on icy snow. Road has been impassable since Monday.

MLSO PROBLEM : Wed Jan 12 18:09:24 GMT 2005

Appears power was lost sometime during snow/thunderstorm between 1/9 and this morning. Telephones are out. Cell phone in vehicle down the road so will leave that issue alone for now. Checking systems before attempting to start observations. No water in the control room.

____end____

MLSO PROBLEM : Wed Jan 12 18:26:59 GMT 2005

Looks like network beyond this building is out, cannot contact noaa servers.

____end____

ECHO PROBLEM : Wed Jan 12 18:31:13 GMT 2005

No images on ECHO. Restarted echosys. Images returned. PC clock off by about
-1 minute. will reset it later.

____end____

MLSO PROBLEM : Wed Jan 12 18:42:08 GMT 2005

Attempting to contact telephone company to report phones and network outage at this time is moot. I don't think they will walk up the hill to check things out.

ECHO PROBLEM : Wed Jan 12 19:10:05 GMT 2005

Reset PC time. GPS time was hosed too. Had to cycle power to Garmin GPS and restart to reestablish communication with echosys and get unit to set correct time.

ECHO is OK now.

COMMENT: Wed Jan 12 20:28:37 GMT 2005

Went down to NOAA to check their stuff out. The NOAA crew were on-site, they walked up from the picnic area, too. They were just calling Hilo on their cell phone to have the Hilo staff alert the phone company about the outage and the accessibility. Gate crew also just arrived on foot. They had planned to move the gate uphill a few feet and widen it to allow larger trucks thru. They plan to reschedule the work due to the equipment and supplies being stuck down below and the inhospitable work conditions today. Cold wind is really howling outside.

COMMENT: Wed Jan 12 23:47:16 GMT 2005

Winding down for the day. I want to get down to the GSA vehicle before things cool off for the day and whatever melt that has occurred today hardens up. I want to try to blaze some tracks in the snow to allow folks to get closer or all the way up here tomorrow--particularly, the phone company guys so that they can re-establish our communication to the outside world ASAP.
