It snowed yesterday and last night it looks like the snow line is at 12,000ft. The top of this mountain and Mauna Kea are covered in snow above 12,000ft. I notice increased traffic already this early with snow seekers coming up here because Mauna Kea road is closed. I hope that hundreds of people don't come again and clog our one lane road that cannot support the traffic.

Headed down before all of the people come and make the observatory road very dangerous. We need a gate at the bottom for winter days like today.
