PM Blew off Kcor O1 Few particle were stuck to the lens toward the E/SE. Expect a few of these will show up as bullet holes in the data. Not sure why these are sticking to the lens with both the old and new air guns; these are big enough that historically I think the air cleaning would remove these things.

Have we just lost air pressure in the air gun over time? Or is the lens just better at capturing particles now?

KCOR COMMENT BY berkey: Wed Jul 25 19:59:17 GMT 2018

Not seeing bullet holes in the nrgf images like I would expect based on the dust seen on the O1.
