PM Washed Kcor 01 due to some bulletholes and fringes. It wasn't obvious during the clean what the source of these artifacts would have been. There were a couple small particles that did seem to move during water flush but my hunch is those particles wouldn't have caused these artifacts.

During 01 washing clouds came in and look like there are going to stick around for the duration. Hopefully we get clear skies tomorrow to check my work; unfortunately the Mauna Kea forecast suggests we might be in for clouds and weather for the rest of the week.
